Featured Resources

Substance Misuse Prevention for Young Adults

This new guide from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration supports health care providers, systems and communities seeking to prevent substance misuse among young adults. It describes relevant research findings, examines emerging and best practices, identifies knowledge gaps and implementation challenges, and offers useful resources. Shout out to PS@EDC's Kim Dash who participated in the expert panel that created this important resource.

Prevention Perspectives

How Should Communities Respond to Marijuana Legalization?

PS@EDC's Gisela Rots discusses how communities can create prevention programs that keep marijuana out of the hand of minors. Listen Now!

Service Spotlight

Virginia Training Enhances Collaboration across Behavioral Health Care Sectors

Addressing the needs of individuals and families affected by substance use and its consequences requires the coordinated involvement of professionals from across the continuum of care—substance misuse prevention, treatment and recovery. Yet differences in training, perspective, and terminology can create artificial barriers to effective collaboration. Read more!
