

In this era of COVID-19, we can help you move your prevention efforts online.

As the corona epidemic continues to grow, face-to-face opportunities to move our prevention efforts forward are becoming fewer and far between. Every day brings new conference and meeting cancellations. In-person training and consultation may not yet be a thing of the past, but it is certainly on hold for many of you for the present.

Fortunately, the virtual world offers a wealth of quality alternatives—and Prevention Solutions@EDC can help you use them to your best advantage. For more than 30 years, we have been a leader in virtual technologies, applying our in-depth knowledge of adult learning to the design and delivery of webinars and online learning communities for thousands of practitioners nationwide.

Our expertise has also been recognized by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Veterans Administration, and Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration.

No single technology approach is right for everyone. We will work with you to create a virtual experience that meets your training and consultation needs. Specifically, we can help you:

Host planning meetings in a virtual space

Facilitate online conversations

Re-conceptualize in-person trainings through a virtual lens

Create and deliver engaging, interactive webinars

Convene online communities of practice, using Adobe Acrobat Connect and Zoom

Record, edit, and post conference presentations

Access a menu of interactive, online courses on a range of prevention topics

Contact us now for a free consultation: PreventionSolutions@edc.org